Co-French-German-Turkish, Mustang had particularly benefited from the Assistance to World Cinema, granted by the CNC and the French Institute. THE FILM MUSTANG DIRECTED BY DENIZ GAMZE ERGUVEN AUTOBIOGRAPHIC OF THE TURKISH FILM MAKER-----Mustang is an initiatory narrative of emancipation. It was born of a desire to tell what it means to be a girl, a woman in contemporary Turkey since it is a society where their place is being debated. From its point of view both outside and inside, Deniz Gamze Ergüven wanted to redefine the identity of the woman, her relation to sexuality and expose the absurdity of conservatism that think everything is sexual. It highlights the fact that his country is one of the first to be legalized women's suffrage in the 30s (against 1944 for France) but, paradoxically, it backtracked on such basic things the right to dispose of his own body. Behind the title lies a reference, obviously, the wild horse embodied the five heroines with their indomitable temperament, free and spirited. Their hair can be treated manes. They are riding through the village together in herds. The film is partly autobiographical. When girls are scandal by climbing on the shoulders of boys is directly inspired by the director's adolescence but unlike the real facts, the characters are rebelling after being brutally reprimanded. The rebellion process, hampered by shame, was much more laborious Deniz Gamze Ergüven. It took her years to begin to be indignant.
